Editorial - Adjacent Strings

Since the order of the characters does not matter we can sort the string, then we can easily find if the characters in the string are adjacent or not. Check the absolute ascii value difference of each adjacent character. Then to be an adjacent string with distinct characters the absolute ascii difference of each adjacent characters should be 1. (Since characters should be distinct this value cannot be 0).